

About the Author

R. J. Spjut joined Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP in 1988. During his nearly thirty years of practice there, he concentrated on commercial, international, and project finance transactions. He advised on a number of significant infrastructure projects in Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, and North and South America and in the energy, telecommunications, and other industries. He was a partner in the firm's San Francisco and Hong Kong offices. He retired at the end of 2017.

Spjut served as cochair of the Uniform Commercial Code Subcommittee of the California State Bar's Business Law Section. He authored numerous articles published in scholarly legal and other journals, trade publications, and books. He also coauthored a guide to secured transactions in California under Revised Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code.

Before joining Pillsbury, he taught law at The Queen's University of Belfast, University of Khartoum, University of Kent at Canterbury, University of San Diego School of Law, and St. Thomas University, School of Law.

He received a JD from University of San Francisco School of Law in 1971 and an LLM from London School of Economics and Political Science in 1972. He is admitted to practice in California and Florida.
